Dutch vs Bulls...

He Ropes The Wild Ones

By Lloyd Albertson

Ace Reid, the Hill Country artist whose cartoon feature, "Cowpokes," appears in many newspapers across Texas, likes to depict characters in it that are no smarter than they have to be -- as a recent cartoon demonstrated very well.
In it a cowpoke had just roped a big steer. The steer was lunging and running in circles, tangling the cow horse in the rope and causing him to rear in fright, throwing the cowpoke off and dragging him with one foot caught in the stirrup. Observing the scene from a safe distance were two cowhands in a jeep, and one was saying:
"That that is what kin happen when a crazy steer, a stupid hoss and a dumb cowpoke get together."

It isn't very likely, under the circumstances, that Dutch Kirk of Cameron will ever be a model for a character in one of Ace Reid's cartoons. He wouldn't fit the picture. Because Dutch Kirk's sideline is wild bull roping. And that requires a man to have plenty of savvy and know-how and be anything but dumb.

Although a good many Cameron citizens probably know Dutch Kirk as a tavern operator whose Kirk's Place is about a mile out the old Temple highway, farmers and cattlemen in the area are likely to know him better for his sideline as a wild bull roper. They call on him for help when having trouble rounding up some bull or steer that has left the herd and gone wild.

This happens now and then, especially on a big pasture where there is plenty of timber and brush in which an animal can hide. Steers, bulls, even occasionally cows, stray away and get into brush and timber where they remain for months or years and revert to the wild state. They become rogues.

The cattlemen who own the animal, however, naturally don't want to lose the profit from a sale of that much potential beefsteak on the hoof -- so he usually decides to call in a specialist to handle the situation. Here in Milam County that usually means Dutch Kirk and his brother Buck.

They are professional wild bull ropers. They have the know-how and the equipment. And they have been doing it a long time.
"I was fourteen when I started," Dutch said a few days ago when talking about some of his experiences. "My brother Buck taught me. He's about a year and a half older than I am."

About the first thing a wild bull roper needs is a good smart cow horse that is well trained. Because, as Dutch explains, it is a dangerous business, and a horse has to know how to keep out of danger. His horse is named Patches and he is proud of him.

The saddle is special also, in that it has double rig, sometimes called a "shotgun" rig. That is, a second band or girth is attached to the saddle at the back to hold it down and prevent it from tipping forward when a lunging bull jerks on the rope attached to the saddle horn. This could throw the rider and probably injure him.

And the rope is usually somewhat special. Dutch uses a nylon rope about thirty feet long. That puts him in pretty close quarters with a steer or bull on the other end of it -- which explains why he says wild bull roping can be dangerous.

Among ropers there are two kinds -- the "tie hard" men and the "dally" men. The tie hard man likes the rope tied firmly to the saddle horn.

The dally man likes to just wrap the rope around the saddle horn several times so he can let it go in a hurry. His danger is that he sometimes gets his hand under the rope, and if the bull jerks on it suddenly, it can tighten and cut off a finger or two. Dutch uses a combination of both methods. He uses a horn loop. It tightens on the horn like a tie hard, but he can pull on an end and release it if necessary.

Dogs are used to go into the brush and timber and drive out the bulls and steers to where a roper can get to them. Dutch has several leopard dogs trained for that purpose.

It is then that the action really begins.
The bull is mad or scared or both, and fights to get loose from the rope. Or, infuriated, he may charge at the horse and rider like a bull in a Mexican bullring. "I've had a horse horned a couple of times," Dutch Kirk says about close calls he's had. "And I broke a leg once -- my horse fell in the mud. But I've been real lucky."

How long does it take to rope a bull or steer? That depends on a lot of things. He remarked that recently on the Frank Walls ranch near Hanover they worked from early morning until late in the afternoon before the job was done.

The steer or bull is nearly always herded into a loading chute and loaded into a trailer to be taken to an auction and sold. Commenting on this, Dutch Kirk said one of his closest calls came when he was getting a bull into the chute and the man operating the gate closed it too soon, closing him in with the bull.

"I snubbed the rope real fast on the bull and managed to get out all right."

Asked if he had ever done any roping on the rodeo circuits, he shook his head. "I'm just a brush popper," he said.

And he says fifty dollars was the most he was ever paid for roping a wild bull and getting him into the trailer.

His son Mike, is only ten years old, but already looks like he is going to follow in his footsteps. Mike has a horse called Jigger and last week, June 13, out at Wilson Ledbetter Park he won first place in pleasure class riding, and fifth in the Indian pony race. So maybe he will be a wild bull roper himself some of these days and carry on the family tradition.

Each summer a new crop of Cameron youngsters head for the City Pool for swimming lessons, braving the night-chilled water. This enthusiastic group is in full swing as they master a new skill. Above, "stroke and turn" is practiced by the children before they are allowed to try it with their feet off the bottom.

Adult Night Starts At City Pool

Get that swimsuit out of mothballs, grampa, and patch up the holes in the knees -- adult night at Cameron City Pool starts Thursday.

Dan Delaney, lifeguard at the pool, announced that the pool will be open from 7:30 until 10 p.m. on Thursday nights for adults only. Admission will be $1. Babysitters will be available at the Boy Scout House in Wilson-Ledbetter Park. They will be high school girls, members of the local CYO, who will accept donations for the service to parents.

The snack stand will not be open, so swimmers must bring their own snacks and drinks.

A swimming class for adults will start Tuesday, June 23, from 7:30 until 9 p.m., and are scheduled for five weeks. Information on the classes may be obtained by calling Delaney at the pool, 697-2681.

'Springboard For The Curious'... History Absorbs Rancher-Poet

"Composing poetry is mental gymnastics for me" Lloyd Cowan related in an interview this week.

Cowan, whose work has been published widely in Texas periodicals and in book form, retired from the abstract business and moved from Dallas to Cameron in 1960. He now divides his time between ranching and reading.

"I find little time for writing poetry now," he said. "I have become absorbed in reading -- mostly historical books. I am of a curious nature and history is the main springboard for the curious."

Steeped in the history of the West, many of Cowan's poems are about this country.

He recalls three treks by covered wagon. First from his birth place in Bell County to Hilton, later from Hilton to Swisher County and then a final covered wagon move to Eastern New Mexico.

His father was a rancher and schools were always far from home so his first formal schooling was at age 9. A personal debate between Naturalism and Christianity led him to theology studies at Southern Methodist University. After three years he changed majors to geology and then philosophy.

His first poem, a triolet (short form poem) was read to his freshman class by the professor. This encouraged more poetry writing and he was invited into "The Makers" one of the most distinguished poetry societies in the nation.

Cowan believes the best poetry is written in simple form, but agrees that a poet must have a wide vocabulary. "Words interest me still, I keep a dictionary at my side when I read," he said.

Early Heat Beats Calendar; Grain Crops Need Rain

Boy Scouts Plan July 4 Rest Stop

Home Gardens Affected

Two Cameron Boy Scout troops are planning to set up a rest stop in City Park for holiday travelers during the July 4 weekend.

Troops 701 and 752 will man the rest stop, offering cold drinks, coffee and cookies to motorists from Friday evening until Sunday night.

The project has been carried out for several years by Troop 752, led by Felix Matula Jr. This year Troop 701 will help, since "52" will be at Boy Scout camp until Saturday. Johnny Schmidt is Scoutmaster for Troop 701.

Last year nearly 700 travelers paused for a short break and refreshments at the rest stop. Matula said the troop missed having the stop one year, and a family who travels to the Gulf Coast each July 4 weekend stopped and said "where were you last year?"

Motorists traveling on US77 - SH36 are advised about the stop by signs put up by the Scouts.

Many travelers write letters and notes to the Scouts, repeating thanks for the friendly welcome they receive under the canopy that shelters the refreshments.

Matula said the rest stop is made possible by individuals, business firms, and Chamber of Commerce help. Coffee and cups are already promised for this year, he added.

Donations of cookies and sugar will be welcomed, as will cash.

Donations may be sent to either troop or Scoutmaster.

Plans call for Troop 701 to man the stop on Friday, spend the night in the park, and stay until relieved by Troop 752 on Saturday. They will spend Saturday night at the park and stay until Sunday night.

The rest stop was started to help motorists observe pleas from law enforcement officials to take a break during long holiday weekend trips. The Scouts feel this is one way to promote traffic safety and the gratitude of travelers makes all the effort worthwhile.

Service For Mrs. Coward

Mrs. Lorene H. Coward, 55, of Cameron, died at 9:45 a.m., Thursday, June 18 in a Temple hospital.

She was born June 24, 1914 in Milam County.

She is survived by her husband, Morris Coward; a son, Ray Coward of Cameron; one daughter, Mrs. La Trelle Good of Fort Stockton; a brother, Herbert Duesen of Houston.

Three sisters also survive, Miss Clara Duesen and Mrs. Marilyn Mitchell, both of Burleson, Mrs. Lenora Smolinsky of Chicago, Ill.

Marek-Burns Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Summer officially starts today (Monday) but temperatures have "beat the calendar" and are climbing toward the 100-degree mark. No rainfall has been recorded since June 1.

What promises to be a good crop of grain sorghum and corn will have to get some rain soon, according to County Agent J. D. Moore. Moore said these crops must have the moisture by the latter part of June to mature for even a normal crop.

Temperatures in the 90s have been recorded since June 11 following an unseasonal period of cool weather during the first week of this month. Last rain was recorded on June 1, when 37 inch fell. A high of 98 degrees was recorded on the 14th.

Home gardens are being affected by the heat, but large truck gardens are still holding up well. Moore said, Watermelon and tomato crops in sandy soil still have deep moisture to draw upon.

Cattle ranges and grass have not shown any wilting yet, Moore said, and are looking "pretty good."

Landowners happy about the current weather include cotton farmers and hay growers -- it's fine for both, making the cotton thrive and allowing harvesting of the hay crops.

1969 BROKE RECORDS
Last year the dry, hot weather continued from late May until late August, when rains brought relief from a summer that broke heat records, with temperatures climbing to 109 in August.

Losses to grain and cotton crops were serious and temporary grazing permits were obtained for livestock owners.

Grill Guide

Be sure to control heat when broiling or roasting meat outdoors. The temperature should be moderate (350°F.). This heat insures even browning, retains natural juices and avoids shrinkage. Wait until coals are covered with gray ash. Lower or raise grill top to regulate heat. For accuracy use a grill thermometer.

WORSHIP IN CHURCH

That Word in Anger...

You spoke it loudly and without concern, but did it solve any problems for you?

You told him off, but did you get the order? Sure, relief at the time may seem sweet and bear up your own ego, but soon a dirty, gray regret sets in.

Count ten??? Ah, you'd better count to a hundred or more and, by so doing, have a word fitly spoken. God said, "Be not hasty in thy spirit to be angry: for anger resteth in the bosom of fools." Eccl. 7:9. Angry words can't be called back. One can't unsay them. The damage they do may be irreparable. Want to quit your foolishness? Then, seek out righteous men for your companions and ask God to help stay your tongue for,

"He that is soon angry

dealeth foolishly."

Yes is the Word
The Church is Yes
- Love a combination
for good. Every man, woman and child needs
the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us
support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader or attend services regularly.

The Diplomatic Pouch

WASHINGTON, D.C. --The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State:

Treaty Making

In my U.S. history class we are considering foreign relations. We have discussed treaties and other forms of agreements made with other countries as well as the Senate's role in deciding on these. I thought it would be helpful, not only to me, but to my classmates as well, if we could have some explanation of the way the Senate's subcommittees break down and analyze a treaty or agreement with another country.

S.A.R.
Westmont, N.J.

Dear S.A.R.:
When a treaty between the United States and another country is transmitted by the President to the Senate for advice and consent to ratification, it is referred to the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and the English text of the treaty is printed in a Senate "executive" document together with the text of the President's message of transmittal and the report of the Secretary of State to the President with respect to that treaty.

The Committee on Foreign Relations may or may not hold hearings with respect to a particular treaty. In general, however, public hearings are held. The committee may refer the matter to an ad hoc subcommittee for preliminary consideration (the subcommittee being comprised of certain members of the full Committee). In general, however, the hearings on treaties are before the Committee as a whole.

When the Committee has completed its consideration of a treaty, it usually submits to the Senate an "executive report" containing a recommendation concerning action on the treaty. The Committee may recommend that the Senate give its advice and consent to ratification without reservation. On the other hand, it may recommend a reservation or "interpretation" before further action on the treaty.

Foreign Service Career

What chance does a 38-year-old widow have to get into the diplomatic service? If she be of her country? If she be of unquestionable character, loyal to the U.S.A., and in good health, would that be a start? In addition, if she is fluent in one foreign language, a good typist, with an excellent education in Europe and experience there in accounting and bookkeeping?

A.Y.
Manson, Wash.

Dear A.Y.:
We are pleased to learn that you are interested in the Department of State's employment opportunities. Unfortunately, you do not meet all of the basic requirements for an overseas position.

ASCS News

By Alva E. Sanders

Beginning July 1, producers who earn payments in the 1970 voluntary feed grain, wheat, and cotton program will start receiving payment computation statements which will be attached to their payment drafts.

It is most important for producers to retain these computation statements along with their other farm records. The computation statements provide these important details:

1. Program for which payment is made, (Feed Grain, wheat, or cotton)
2. Both gross and net payment, for entire farm and for individual producer.
3. Planted acreage and diverted acreage (if any).
4. Projected yield, used for payment computations.

It is suggested that producers verify their computation statements with their farm records before filing them in a safe place. If they have any questions, they should get in touch with their Milam County ASCS Office as soon as possible.

If farm program computation statements are lost or destroyed, producers may obtain the information from records in the County ASCS Office.

Producers who have not certified to their 1970 program acreage are reminded that they should do so by the July 1 deadline.

ments for an overseas position.
Candidates for overseas positions must be at least 21 years old, unmarried, without dependents, a U.S. citizen for five years, and must have at least two years of recent work experience, including one year in a secretarial or stenographic position where shorthand is used.

However, the above requirements are not applicable to clerical positions in Washington, D.C., where we have a continuing need for stenographers and typists. Many stenographers who are interested in overseas work but do not meet all the Foreign Service requirements are employed by us in Washington. We encourage such employment as it gives the employee an excellent opportunity to become familiar with the Department, its traditions and working procedures, and provides an insight into the Foreign Service. Secretaries selected for positions in Washington may apply for a transfer overseas after a one- or two-year tour in Washington, providing all requirements for the Foreign Service are met.

We do not have positions overseas for persons who possess only typing skills. Do you have an inquiry about U.S. foreign policy? Send it to:

LS400 Race Suspended

The Lone Star 400 originally scheduled to be run at Texas International Speedway on June 21 will not be held on that date. A strike by workers at Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company idled their plants for more than seven weeks and prevented Goodyear from building the required tires for the Grand National Stock Car race.

As Goodyear is the only source of tires for this series of racing, the Texas International Speedway management and the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) were forced to suspend the June 21st date.

Rescheduling later in the year will be determined as soon as Goodyear can supply the tires and NASCAR can set a date. "Texas International Speedway forces this change. We hope that all racing fans will understand and be patient as we work toward solving the problem," said George Boyett, General Manager at Texas International Speedway.

BRADEN ENDS RESERVE DUTY AT FT. HOOD

Chief Warrant Officer W3, Bartley E. Braden, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Braden of Cameron, has just completed his 2-weeks annual active duty in the Army Reserve at Fort Hood as a member of the 837th Military Intelligence Detachment (Strategic).

The 837th, assigned out of the Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence at the Pentagon, is affiliated with Texas A&M University and is commanded by Colonel James R. Bradley, Head of the Industrial Economics Research Division at A&M.

Braden is a 1951 graduate of Yoe High School where he participated in football, basketball and track. He has served 4 years on active duty and 15 years in the Reserve and has held all enlisted ranks from Private to Master Sergeant before being appointed Warrant Officer Junior Grade in 1960. He is currently the administrative officer and classified documents custodian for the 837th Military Intelligence Detachment (Strategic).

He is married to the former Suzanne Murray of Rockport and has two children. Since 1966 he has been administrative assistant to the vice president & comptroller of the A&M System. He is also a member of the Southwest Basketball Officials' Association and the Southwest Football Officials' Association.

The famed "Spirit of '76", painted by Archibald M. Willard, Ohio artist and wagon decorator, was exhibited at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition of 1876. The National Geographic Society says, Critics ignored the painting, but the public loved it.

Maybe A Flood....

An interesting aside to Folk Fete is the visit of at least one professor of sociology and his family from the University of Texas and information that other university faculty might visit.

Perhaps Folk Fete teaches as it entertains, not only the participants, but academe as well.

WHAT OTHERS SAY...

Minitrains

Among the problems that cloud the future of America's railroads is the archaic maze of union manpower requirements and other restrictions placed on a line's operations.

Business Week magazine recently cited this example: The Illinois Central is trying to develop a minitrain concept—five cars or fewer that could be used by one shipper to haul a cargo a relatively Maybe we really have something here, something the world sometime in the future will benefit by. If we do, it is because we tried the best, and ignored the ignoble, and to blazes with protest.

One of the big successes of Folk Fete—understanding—is leaking out to a good part of the country. Maybe it will become a flood.

short distance.

Why can't the railroad do that profitably now? Because, under union rules, it takes six train crews and four yard crews and 22 days to move five freight cars 52 miles and back....

How's that for a way to run a railroad!

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir,

We attended the Folk Fete both nights and while there Saturday night my 2 year old granddaughter wanted water. After about 45 minutes of fussing I walked out and asked a lady walking where I could find a paper cup and water and she said I'll be glad to help you. She did - she's a

By the year 2,000 it is estimated the Gross National Product will exceed $2 trillion. Forecasts show the nation's output of goods and services rising four times faster than the population.

The average employee will turn out $10.50 worth of goods and services in an hour, as compared to $4.18 in 1965. He'll work only 31 hours a week.
